

Hashing Functional Specification

Write a program that creates a hashed table.

What type of input does the program allow? string, integer...

How efficient is the program? (minimal hash, perfect minimal)

What structure did you use?

If you used an array/linked list/????, how difficult (and what steps would be required) to convert the program to a different data structure?

How many input values can your hash table hold?